New CME Module on the Impact of Microaggression on Mental Health Outcomes

As you prepare to graduate from your training program, complete your APA Action Required: Time to Advance your APA Membership. You'll receive a member benefit in addition to the CME module.

The population of the United States is aging and growing increasingly diverse, creating a need for increased awareness of microaggression and its effects on mental health outcomes. APA's Division of Diversity and Health Equity has produced a new CME module focused on how microaggression affects mental health outcomes. This activity focuses on microaggression and discrimination by asking learners to examine their relationship to mental health and physical illness. The course uses a pulsed learning format rather than a traditional online module. Participants are provided with a series of 10 multiple-choice questions to be completed by email if you complete it by June 30.

Mark Your Calendar

- June 10 - Men's Health Month (June)
- June 21 - Alzheimer's and Brain Awareness Month (June)
- June 28 - International's CARAVAN® Omnibus Survey during the 2019 Annual Meeting. The poll was conducted online using ORC Research, and 1,001 U.S. adults were surveyed. Results will be available soon.

In This Issue

- Distinguished Fellowship Application
- Up to 80% Off! New Premium Discounts from PRMS!
- Mark Your Calendar for this summer with the Summer Solstice on June 21
- Men's Health Month (June)
- Alzheimer's and Brain Awareness Month (June)

Improve Your Practice

- Classifieds
- Washington Psychiatric Society
- Distinguished Fellowship Application
- Distinguished Fellowship Application
- Presented by
- UP TO 80% OFF! New Premium Discounts from PRMS!
- Mark Your Calendar for this summer with the Summer Solstice on June 21
- Men's Health Month (June)
- Alzheimer's and Brain Awareness Month (June)

Washington Psychiatric Society

A non-profit organization, Washington Psychiatric Society, was established in 1943 to serve as a bridge between Washingtonians and mental health professionals. Its mission is to improve the treatment of mental illness through education, advocacy, and community service. The Society is a member of the American Psychiatric Association, the American Medical Association, and the National Council for Behavioral Health Care. It is also affiliated with several other professional organizations, including the American Psychological Association and the National Alliance on Mental Illness. The Society has a membership of more than 3,000 professionals, including psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, nurses, and other mental health practitioners. It is located at 1300 T Street NW, Suite 400, Washington, DC 20005, and can be contacted at (202) 449-9680 or wps@memberclicks-mail.net.

Message from the Executive Director

Washington Psychiatric Society is a non-profit organization that serves as a bridge between Washingtonians and mental health professionals. It is committed to improving the treatment of mental illness through education, advocacy, and community service. The Society is a member of the American Psychiatric Association, the American Medical Association, and the National Council for Behavioral Health Care. It is also affiliated with several other professional organizations, including the American Psychological Association and the National Alliance on Mental Illness. The Society has a membership of more than 3,000 professionals, including psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, nurses, and other mental health practitioners. It is located at 1300 T Street NW, Suite 400, Washington, DC 20005, and can be contacted at (202) 449-9680 or wps@memberclicks-mail.net.

Message from the Executive Director

Washington Psychiatric Society is a non-profit organization that serves as a bridge between Washingtonians and mental health professionals. It is committed to improving the treatment of mental illness through education, advocacy, and community service. The Society is a member of the American Psychiatric Association, the American Medical Association, and the National Council for Behavioral Health Care. It is also affiliated with several other professional organizations, including the American Psychological Association and the National Alliance on Mental Illness. The Society has a membership of more than 3,000 professionals, including psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, nurses, and other mental health practitioners. It is located at 1300 T Street NW, Suite 400, Washington, DC 20005, and can be contacted at (202) 449-9680 or wps@memberclicks-mail.net.

Message from the Executive Director

Washington Psychiatric Society is a non-profit organization that serves as a bridge between Washingtonians and mental health professionals. It is committed to improving the treatment of mental illness through education, advocacy, and community service. The Society is a member of the American Psychiatric Association, the American Medical Association, and the National Council for Behavioral Health Care. It is also affiliated with several other professional organizations, including the American Psychological Association and the National Alliance on Mental Illness. The Society has a membership of more than 3,000 professionals, including psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, nurses, and other mental health practitioners. It is located at 1300 T Street NW, Suite 400, Washington, DC 20005, and can be contacted at (202) 449-9680 or wps@memberclicks-mail.net.

Message from the Executive Director

Washington Psychiatric Society is a non-profit organization that serves as a bridge between Washingtonians and mental health professionals. It is committed to improving the treatment of mental illness through education, advocacy, and community service. The Society is a member of the American Psychiatric Association, the American Medical Association, and the National Council for Behavioral Health Care. It is also affiliated with several other professional organizations, including the American Psychological Association and the National Alliance on Mental Illness. The Society has a membership of more than 3,000 professionals, including psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, nurses, and other mental health practitioners. It is located at 1300 T Street NW, Suite 400, Washington, DC 20005, and can be contacted at (202) 449-9680 or wps@memberclicks-mail.net.

Message from the Executive Director

Washington Psychiatric Society is a non-profit organization that serves as a bridge between Washingtonians and mental health professionals. It is committed to improving the treatment of mental illness through education, advocacy, and community service. The Society is a member of the American Psychiatric Association, the American Medical Association, and the National Council for Behavioral Health Care. It is also affiliated with several other professional organizations, including the American Psychological Association and the National Alliance on Mental Illness. The Society has a membership of more than 3,000 professionals, including psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, nurses, and other mental health practitioners. It is located at 1300 T Street NW, Suite 400, Washington, DC 20005, and can be contacted at (202) 449-9680 or wps@memberclicks-mail.net.

Message from the Executive Director

Washington Psychiatric Society is a non-profit organization that serves as a bridge between Washingtonians and mental health professionals. It is committed to improving the treatment of mental illness through education, advocacy, and community service. The Society is a member of the American Psychiatric Association, the American Medical Association, and the National Council for Behavioral Health Care. It is also affiliated with several other professional organizations, including the American Psychological Association and the National Alliance on Mental Illness. The Society has a membership of more than 3,000 professionals, including psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, nurses, and other mental health practitioners. It is located at 1300 T Street NW, Suite 400, Washington, DC 20005, and can be contacted at (202) 449-9680 or wps@memberclicks-mail.net.

Message from the Executive Director

Washington Psychiatric Society is a non-profit organization that serves as a bridge between Washingtonians and mental health professionals. It is committed to improving the treatment of mental illness through education, advocacy, and community service. The Society is a member of the American Psychiatric Association, the American Medical Association, and the National Council for Behavioral Health Care. It is also affiliated with several other professional organizations, including the American Psychological Association and the National Alliance on Mental Illness. The Society has a membership of more than 3,000 professionals, including psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, nurses, and other mental health practitioners. It is located at 1300 T Street NW, Suite 400, Washington, DC 20005, and can be contacted at (202) 449-9680 or wps@memberclicks-mail.net.