It's been a pleasure to work with such a committed group of leaders, volunteers, Frontline Physicians, and APA members. It's never too late to join or renew your APA membership. Remember, APA membership expires December 31, 2018, so don't delay. Help in spreading the word about our fellowship opportunities for psychiatry residents. Please see the January 15, 2019 Fellowship Application Period, including APA's Division of Diversity and Health Equity has published a fact sheet on Mental Health Disparities in Gay Populations. This resource includes APA's diagnostic criteria for psychiatric disorders, including the diagnosis of functional neurological symptom disorder (conversion disorder) for patients. This presentation will discuss cognitive behavior therapy and psychodynamic approaches. This presentation will discuss the development of evidence-based treatments for conversion disorder, including the role of cognitive-behavioral therapy and pharmacotherapy. This presentation will also discuss the role of medication management in the treatment of conversion disorder, including the use of anticonvulsants and other medications. In recent years, there has been an explosion of research in the field of neuropsychiatry, with new studies being published on the relationship between brain function and mental health. Cognitive-behavioral therapy has been shown to be effective in treating a variety of psychiatric disorders, including conversion disorder. Psychodynamic therapy has also been shown to be effective in treating conversion disorder, with many patients reporting symptom improvement after several months of therapy. Finally, medication management has been shown to be effective in treating conversion disorder, with many patients reporting symptom improvement after several months of treatment. In conclusion, conversion disorder is a complex and challenging disorder to treat, but with the right combination of therapy and medication management, many patients can achieve symptom remission.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

IMPORTANT REMINDER

It's been a pleasure to work with such a committed group of leaders, volunteers, Frontline Physicians, and APA members. It's never too late to join or renew your APA membership. Remember, APA membership expires December 31, 2018, so don't delay. Help in spreading the word about our fellowship opportunities for psychiatry residents. Please see the Message from the Executive Director.

MESSAGE FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

It's been a pleasure to work with such a committed group of leaders, volunteers, Frontline Physicians, and APA members. It's never too late to join or renew your APA membership. Remember, APA membership expires December 31, 2018, so don't delay. Help in spreading the word about our fellowship opportunities for psychiatry residents. Please see the December 2018 DC Legislative Update. Time is running out to renew DC physician licenses. More than 8,000 DC physicians are still pending.

DC Legislative Update

As the DC Council closed its 22nd Council Period, there were a flurry of consequential actions related to healthcare in the District. Legislation dealing with Behavioral Health Parity, a long-time front in the battle for improved healthcare for District residents, was passed. The bill is expected to be signed into law by the mayor, bringing a significant victory for advocates of improved mental health services in the District. However, it is not clear what if anything may happen with the suit pending against the District. Further review of the lawsuit will be necessary before the issues are resolved, ensuring improved healthcare for District residents.

As the DC Council closed its 22nd Council Period, there were a flurry of consequential actions related to healthcare in the District. Legislation dealing with Behavioral Health Parity, a long-time front in the battle for improved mental health services in the District, was passed. The bill is expected to be signed into law by the mayor, bringing a significant victory for advocates of improved mental health services in the District. However, it is not clear what if anything may happen with the suit pending against the District. Further review of the lawsuit will be necessary before the issues are resolved, ensuring improved healthcare for District residents.

As the DC Council closed its 22nd Council Period, there were a flurry of consequential actions related to healthcare in the District. Legislation dealing with Behavioral Health Parity, a long-time front in the battle for improved mental health services in the District, was passed. The bill is expected to be signed into law by the mayor, bringing a significant victory for advocates of improved mental health services in the District. However, it is not clear what if anything may happen with the suit pending against the District. Further review of the lawsuit will be necessary before the issues are resolved, ensuring improved healthcare for District residents.

As the DC Council closed its 22nd Council Period, there were a flurry of consequential actions related to healthcare in the District. Legislation dealing with Behavioral Health Parity, a long-time front in the battle for improved mental health services in the District, was passed. The bill is expected to be signed into law by the mayor, bringing a significant victory for advocates of improved mental health services in the District. However, it is not clear what if anything may happen with the suit pending against the District. Further review of the lawsuit will be necessary before the issues are resolved, ensuring improved healthcare for District residents.

As the DC Council closed its 22nd Council Period, there were a flurry of consequential actions related to healthcare in the District. Legislation dealing with Behavioral Health Parity, a long-time front in the battle for improved mental health services in the District, was passed. The bill is expected to be signed into law by the mayor, bringing a significant victory for advocates of improved mental health services in the District. However, it is not clear what if anything may happen with the suit pending against the District. Further review of the lawsuit will be necessary before the issues are resolved, ensuring improved healthcare for District residents.

As the DC Council closed its 22nd Council Period, there were a flurry of consequential actions related to healthcare in the District. Legislation dealing with Behavioral Health Parity, a long-time front in the battle for improved mental health services in the District, was passed. The bill is expected to be signed into law by the mayor, bringing a significant victory for advocates of improved mental health services in the District. However, it is not clear what if anything may happen with the suit pending against the District. Further review of the lawsuit will be necessary before the issues are resolved, ensuring improved healthcare for District residents.

As the DC Council closed its 22nd Council Period, there were a flurry of consequential actions related to healthcare in the District. Legislation dealing with Behavioral Health Parity, a long-time front in the battle for improved mental health services in the District, was passed. The bill is expected to be signed into law by the mayor, bringing a significant victory for advocates of improved mental health services in the District. However, it is not clear what if anything may happen with the suit pending against the District. Further review of the lawsuit will be necessary before the issues are resolved, ensuring improved healthcare for District residents.

As the DC Council closed its 22nd Council Period, there were a flurry of consequential actions related to healthcare in the District. Legislation dealing with Behavioral Health Parity, a long-time front in the battle for improved mental health services in the District, was passed. The bill is expected to be signed into law by the mayor, bringing a significant victory for advocates of improved mental health services in the District. However, it is not clear what if anything may happen with the suit pending against the District. Further review of the lawsuit will be necessary before the issues are resolved, ensuring improved healthcare for District residents.

As the DC Council closed its 22nd Council Period, there were a flurry of consequential actions related to healthcare in the District. Legislation dealing with Behavioral Health Parity, a long-time front in the battle for improved mental health services in the District, was passed. The bill is expected to be signed into law by the mayor, bringing a significant victory for advocates of improved mental health services in the District. However, it is not clear what if anything may happen with the suit pending against the District. Further review of the lawsuit will be necessary before the issues are resolved, ensuring improved healthcare for District residents.

As the DC Council closed its 22nd Council Period, there were a flurry of consequential actions related to healthcare in the District. Legislation dealing with Behavioral Health Parity, a long-time front in the battle for improved mental health services in the District, was passed. The bill is expected to be signed into law by the mayor, bringing a significant victory for advocates of improved mental health services in the District. However, it is not clear what if anything may happen with the suit pending against the District. Further review of the lawsuit will be necessary before the issues are resolved, ensuring improved healthcare for District residents.